JIM SWINTAL, The Voice of Race Control to all the posts, had this assessment of the Las Vegas circuit.

It's a Tough Track. Challenging for the Marshals.

Yes, with so much straightaway length, only the yellow and blue flaggers with their heads near the flag holes get a good look in either direction. All the action that occurred during the F1 Academy race was a real challenge, as some communicators couldn't see all the incidents as well as they are used to seeing elsewhere. The glare of the lights on the wet pavement was little help.

Friday was a day of extremes. Light and dark, near and far, wet and dry, easy and hard. If they came through on Friday, they'll handle anything that can happen during the race Saturday.
