Bruce Kulick was the lead guitarist in KISS for twelve years from 1984 till 1996, and during his tenure with the band he received numerous Platinum and Gold records, video awards and performed all over the globe. His solo album, "BK3," was one of Classic Rock Magazine's Top 50 albums in 2010, with guests like Gene Simmons, Tobias Sammet (Avantasia), Steve Lukather (Toto) and more. Aside from his three solo CDs, Kulick's resume features over 60 album credits, including German supergroup Avantasia, Meatloaf, Billy Squier, Michael Bolton and Lordi, to mention a few. The band that he formed in 1998 with John Corabi called, UNION, still has a staunch following. Bruce has been the lead guitarist for Grand Funk Railroad past 13 years.
